Report of one-day national webinar on the theme "Science, Technology and Medicine in Colonial India: Different Aspects."

In the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic, academic institutions worldwide have shifted their focus to virtual platforms to continue scholarly discourse and knowledge dissemination. In this context, the Department of History at Nayagram Pandit Raghunath Murmu Government College, Nayagram, Baligeria, Jhargram, West Bengal in collaboration with New Alipore College, New Alipore, Kolkata, West Bengal organized a one-day national webinar on the theme "Science, Technology and Medicine in Colonial India: Different Aspects." The webinar aimed to explore various facets of scientific, technological, and medical advancements during the colonial period in India. The webinar aimed to shed light on the various dimensions of how these fields evolved, interacted, and influenced each other under colonial rule.

The inaugural session was enhanced by the presence of famous historians from the University, teachers from other Colleges, and a significant number of passionate students from both undergraduate and postgraduate social science programs. Dr. Arabinda Samanta, Department of History, University of Burdwan; Dr. Sabyasachi Chatterjee, Department of History, University of Kalyani; and Sri Rajekul Islam, Department of History, Diamond Harbour Women's University were among the dignitaries who enlightened the audience with their valuable insights. The webinar began with an introductory session during which notable visitors and lecturers discussed the importance of researching the convergence of science, technology, and medicine in colonial India. They emphasized the importance of historical perspectives by examining how colonialism shaped scientific achievements and medical practices on the Indian subcontinent.

The one-day national webinar "Science, Technology, and Medicine in Colonial India: Different Aspects" allowed scholars, researchers, and students to explore the many facets of scientific, technological, and medical achievements throughout the colonial period. The webinar helped participants gain a better grasp of the historical backdrop and legacy of colonial impacts on India's scientific and medical landscape through incisive conversations, research presentations, and interactive exercises. In these trying times, virtual academic projects provide vital opportunities for intellectual engagement and academic enrichment.

The webinar allowed participants to communicate with the speakers via interactive Question & Answer sessions. Attendees asked thoughtful questions, creating debate and a deeper understanding of the webinar's subjects. The webinar ended with closing statements, in which the organizers thanked the attendees, speakers, and sponsors for their contributions to the event's success. They emphasized the significance of ongoing scholarly research into the history of science, technology, and medicine in colonial India.

A report on
Covid-19: Deliberation on Precautionary Measures and Mental Health Issues

The webinar on "Covid-19: Deliberation on Precautionary Measures and Mental Health Issues" aimed to address current best practices for managing Covid-19 and explore the impact of the pandemic on mental health. Anindita Mandal, Doctoral Fellow, All India Institute of Medical Sciences, Rishikesh, Uttarakhand, provided an overview of the latest Covid-19 statistics, emphasizing trends in infection rates and vaccination coverage. She emphasized on the following points-

- Precautionary Measures:
  - Vaccination: Emphasis on booster shots and updated vaccines for emerging variants.
  - Hygiene Practices: Continued importance of handwashing and respiratory hygiene.
  - Social Distancing: Recommendations for maintaining physical distance in high-risk settings.
  - Travel Guidelines: Updated travel restrictions and guidelines for international travel.
- Public Health Policies: Overview of current government policies and their effectiveness.

Key Takeaways:

- Vaccination remains a critical tool in controlling the spread of Covid-19.
- Adherence to hygiene and social distancing continues to be important, especially in crowded or poorly ventilated areas.
- Policies are evolving in response to new data, and it is essential for the public to stay informed about the latest guidelines.

Mental Health Issues Related to the Pandemic

- Impact on Mental Health:
  - Anxiety and Depression: Increase in anxiety and depressive disorders due to prolonged isolation, uncertainty, and health concerns.
  - Burnout: High levels of burnout among healthcare workers and essential workers.
  - Children and Adolescents: Effects of school closures and disrupted routines on young people's mental health.

- Strategies for Coping:

- Mental Health Resources: Availability of online counseling and teletherapy options.
- Self-Care Practices: Importance of maintaining routines, physical activity, and social connections.
- Community Support: Role of community support groups and peer networks.

- Policy Recommendations:

- Support Systems: Need for enhanced mental health support systems within workplaces and educational institutions.
- Government Initiatives: Call for increased funding for mental health services and public awareness campaigns.

Key Takeaways:

- The pandemic has exacerbated mental health issues, requiring a multifaceted approach to support affected individuals.
- Access to mental health resources and support systems is crucial for managing stress and promoting well-being.
- Community and institutional support play a vital role in addressing mental health challenges during the pandemic.

Brief Description of the Content:

Sanskrit is the oldest language in the world. Knowledge and exchange of ideas have been in this language since ancient times, but knowledge and conversation in this language have decreased relatively much in the modern era. But everyone should know this language to keep Indianness alive. On that occasion, various Sanskrit lovers have dedicated themselves and continue to use this language in a modern way.

Students and other interested participants get insight and benefit from this online seminar on how Sanskrit is being used in modern times and what the future of this language is.

Brief Description of the Content:

The seminar begins with the chanting of Vedic mantras. Students of the department of Sanskrit performed Vedic chants. The chief speaker gave a special talk on the rich logic of ancient Indian philosophy, especially Nyaya-vaishesika philosophy. It is clearly mentioned that the Nyaya-vaishesika philosophers conducted a subtle analysis of various subjects. The speaker's profound presentation endeared this serious matter to the hearts of the audience.

Report of a one-day state level seminar on “Bengali Drama (how to read Bengali Drama)” & “Bengali plays (how to treat Bengali plays)”

DATE- 25/04/2023

A one-day state level seminar was organised by the Bengali Department on April 25, 2023 in collaboration with IQAC. The O.I.C. was the chief patron of the seminar. He briefly discussed about Bengali Drama in his introductory speech. Dr. Animesh Kundu, Head of the department of Bengali delivered a brief summary of this topic. The discussion was divided into two parts. The theme of the 1st part was “Bengali Drama (how to read Bengali Drama)” and the 2nd part was “Bengali Plays (how to read Bengali Drama)”. Dr. Moloy Rakshit (Professor, Department of Bengali, The University of Burdwan) presided over the seminar. Dr. Moloy Rakshit discussed about the two parts uniformly. The discussion was based on Drama and Theatre as well as group theatre of the contemporary period. The discussion also focused on the text of drama, the text of theatre and style and making of theatre. The seminar became more attractive when the speaker shares his own experience of the watching of theatre. The student of Bengali department as well as other interested students from different departments participated in this seminar.
